The credit crisis and its employment consequences

Jouke van Dijk (1956) is Professor of Regional Labour Market Analysis and chair of the Department of Economic Geography at the Faculty of Spatial Sciences of the University of Groningen. He also works parttime for the NICIS Institute, the premier knowledge institute for urban issues, with a focus on reinforcing the economic and social strength of cities and is Board Member of the Wadden Academy, a research institute of the Royal Netherlands Academy of Arts and Sciences, that sets the agenda and coordinates research activities in the field of Ecology, Geology, Economics and Social Sciences in the Wadden area. Van Dijk graduated in 1981 in Regional Science at the Faculty of Economics of the University of Groningen. In 1986 he obtained his doctoral degree on the thesis 'Migration and the Labour Market'. From 1981 till 1991 he held several positions at the Department of Spatial Economics of the Faculty of Economics.

Opinions of Professor Jouke van Dijk

- 'Building the Zuiderzee Line will not solve the credit crisis' 'The intentions are good, but it's not thought through', is how Jouke van Dijk typifies the proposal by VVD MP Hans van Baalen to return the idea of a Zuiderzee Line to the political agenda as a way of solving the credit crisis. Van Baalen made his proposal during a New Year's gathering organized by Stichting Bedrijfsbelangen Eemshaven. He wants to use the financial crisis to make the Netherlands stronger. Building the Zuiderzee Line would help this, according to Van Baalen. For more information click here.
- 'Brain drain in Groningen? No problem!' According to Jouke van Dijk the braindrain isn't a big problem. It would be a bigger problem if the graduates would stay here unemployed. Groningen University should attract lots of students and can export the knowledge to the rest of

Measure your IQ and win your own Experience, 11.15 - 17.45 hour

Hi Einstein! Are you the smartest visitor of the Internship and Career Plaza?

Do the IQ test and you will know. At the end of the day Frans Zwarts, Rector Magnificus of the University of Groningen, present the IQ-award: your own experience. You decide yourself if it will be action, romance or wellness. Be the smartest student and choose your own experience.

BBC "A person's Intelligence Quotient (IQ) is, arguably, one of their most important characteristics. It is believed that you can predict a person's behaviour more accurately from their IQ than from any other single piece of information about them.

However, IQ is also an area of psychology rife with myth and misunderstanding. Is it really possible to describe all of a person's myriad abilities using one number, their IQ? What influences how well a particular person will perform in a test? Can we improve our performance on these tests through practice or training? More information about IQ, click here.
